THE ACADEMY

The Academy of the Social Sciences in Australia (prior to July 1971 the Social Science Research Council of Australia) is a corporate body of social scientists. Each member, on election by the Academy, takes the title of Fellow. For the origins and development of the Academy, see the 1975-76 (or an earlier) Annual Report, and K.S. Cunningham: The Social Science Research Council of Australia 1942-1952, SSRC, Canberra, 1967.

The functions of the Academy are:—

- (i) to encourage the advancement of the social sciences in Australia;
- (ii) to act as a co-ordinating group for the promotion of research and teaching in the social sciences;
- (iii) to foster research and to subsidise the publication of studies in the social sciences;
- (v) to act as the Australian national member of international organisations connected with social sciences; and
- (vi) to act as consultant and adviser in regard to the social sciences.

As at 30 June 1977 there were one hundred and fifty one Fellows of the Academy. New Fellows are elected by postal ballot on the recommendation of the Membership Committee. The Academy's functions are discharged by the Executive Committee, which consists of the President, the Secretary and the Treasurer and seven other members, all elected at the Annual General Meeting. All committees and office bearers are responsible to the Annual General Meeting.

The Australian Government has, since 1953, provided an annual grant to assist the Academy to meet administrative and travel costs. In 1976-77 the grant was $51,500, $1,500 of which was for the Academy's international activities.

As social change accelerates in Australia, the role of an interdisciplinary social science research organization, independent of governments, becomes more critical. To identify areas where research is urgently required, the Academy has organised its Fellows into four research panels, grouping together the more closely related disciplines, mainly for this purpose. Panel A includes Fellows from the disciplines of Anthropology, Demography, Geography, Sociology and Linguistics: Panel B, Economics, Economic History and Business Administration: Panel C, History, Law, Political Science and Social Philosophy: Panel D, Education and Psychology.

In general, the more socially significant the question, the more imprecise the answer. Yet even the approximate answer may be essential for scientific studies of society, and for effective administrative and political decision making. "Far better an approximate answer to the right question, which is often vague, than an exact answer to the wrong questions, which can always be made precise". (Professor John W. Tukey – quoted by Richard Rose in International Social Science Journal, UNESCO Paris No. 1, 1976, p. 99.) The increasing urgency of problems has been a factor in the Academy's decision to concentrate its resources upon research projects to which it has (latterly through the Panels) given the highest priority. At the end of the Report year, Academy working parties were examining the impact of change on the professions in Australia, and the new phenomenon of massive youth unemployment. Lack of adequate finance has been the major hindrance to the programme, especially in the face of recent high inflation.

In financing research projects the Academy has to look to outside sources such as foundations, statutory bodies and business firms. Its success in this field has been helped by the decision of the Australian Government in August 1964 to grant exemption from income tax on gifts to the Academy for research purposes. However, donations for other important activities, such as the dissemination of scientific knowledge, do not qualify for such a concession. The Academy has sought, so far unsuccessfully, to be included with those education and research bodies in whose cases a donation does not have to be specifically for research to be accepted as an income tax deduction.

The claim of the physical sciences to government support has been obvious, because a disciplined study of disciplined data has so obviously been profitable. Pursuit of the social sciences involves "disciplined research" but into "undisciplined problems" (Richard Rose, op. cit.) i.e. those arising from partly unpredictable human relationships. These are ever more clearly the major problems for Australia and the world. The identification of the social questions for which "approximate answers" can be sought, and the search for those answers, is the central task of the Academy.

RESEARCH PROJECTS

The Academy has completed three major research projects;— Women in Australia, Taxation in Australia and Aborigines in Australian Society. Six volumes of Immigrants in Australia, the findings from the Immigration Project, have now been published. The sixth, Eva Isaacs: Greek Children in Sydney, was published in 1976. Possibly six further volumes will be published to complete this project.

The results of a closely allied project, Studies in the Education of Migrant Children will be published within the Immigrants in Australia series. Details of these projects will be found in the Annual Report for 1975/6, pages 11-17.

The Survey of Vietnamese Refugees, from which the government withdrew promised financial support, is being continued with limited objectives by part-time field work.

The Academies of Science, of the Humanities, and of the Social Sciences jointly initiated the Botany Bay Project, an environmental study which met with considerable opposition (see 1975-6 Annual Report, pp. 16-17). Publications resulting in 1976-7 have been:—

|-------------------|---|
| N.G. Butlin (ed): | The Impact of Port Botany |
| N.G. Butlin (ed): | Sydney's Environmental Amenities 1970-1975. A study of the system of waste management and pollution control. |
| N.G. Butlin (ed): | Factory Waste Potential in Sydney. |
| Pamela Coward: | Environmental Law in Sydney. |
| Bill Ryder: | Air Pollution Control. |

Three further studies, of environmental factors affecting health, are expected. For details of this joint effort undertaken by three Academies in co-operation with the governments of Australia and of New South Wales see the Annual Report for 1975-6, pages 15-17.

The Survey of Australian Economics (see p. 15 of the 1975-6 Annual Report) has continued to be managed by a committee from Panel B (see below). By the end of June 1977 five scripts were in hand and had either been read or were in the hands of referees. It had been decided to publish the results in two volumes. The first was in June 1977 being edited by Professor F.H.G. Gruen.

The Study of the Professions in Australia was further advanced during the year. The working party convened by Dr A. Martin organized a two day seminar at the Australian National University in October 1976. Papers were presented and discussed on Definitions and Issues, Law, Medicine, Socialization and Professional Organisations. Subsequently, an expert working party was convened from members of this seminar. This group met for a conference in Canberra for two days in March 1977. Members undertook to produce five working papers for discussion with Fellows of the Academy (in Adelaide and Sydney) later in the year. By this means it is hoped to make use of expertise available outside the Academy. The Academy expresses its appreciation of the efforts of this working party. This is one way of promoting further research and publication where a full-scale major project cannot be funded.

FELLOWS OF THE ACADEMY

The Rules of the Academy state that "persons who are deemed to have achieved distinction in one or more branches of the social sciences may be elected as Fellows of the Academy if (i) they are nominated by one Fellow and seconded by two other Fellows and (ii) they are recommended by the Membership Committee after investigation of their eligibility and (iii) they receive the support of a majority of the Fellows for the time being at a postal ballot".

Thirteen new Fellows were elected in 1976. They were: Professor G.C. Bolton, Murdoch University; Professor J.J. Goodnow, Macquarie University; Dr C.A. Hughes, Australian National University; Professor F.G. Jarrett,

University of Adelaide; Mr J.A.C. Mackie, Monash University; Professor R.G. Neale, Australian Archives; Dr L.T. Ruzicka, Australian National University; Dr J.J. Smolicz, University of Adelaide; Professor S.J. Stoljar, Australian National University; Professor S.J. Turnovsky, Australian National University; Professor D. Vickers, University of Western Australia; Professor S. Wurm, Australian National University; Professor A.J. Youngson, Australian National University.

In June 1977 there were 151 Fellows, including nine Honorary and six Overseas Fellows. It had again been decided that from 12 to 15 names should be submitted to the postal ballot for election to Fellowship in 1977.

Two distinguished Fellows of the Academy died during the year – Dr William Cropley Radford and Professor Eric Alfred Russell.

OBITUARY NOTICES

WILLIAM CROPLEY RADFORD A.O., MBE (Military), M.A., M.Ed. (Melb.), Ph.D (Lond.) LL.D (Hon – Monash) F.A.C.E. F.A.S.S.A.

Curriculum Vitae:

Born 1913.

Employed in Victorian Education Department as a teacher and as a Research and Curriculum Officer prior to 1939.

AIF – promoted to Major 1939-1945.

Assistant Director, Australian Council for Educational Research (A.C.E.R.) 1946-1954.

Elected to Fellowship of the Academy 1956.

Director, A.C.E.R. 1955-1976.

Died 1976.

In 1954 he was awarded a Carnegie Travel Scholarship and in 1972 the Alexander Mackie Medal for contributions to Australian education.

Publications:

Some of his more important publications were:

Some Aspects of Performance in Mathematics in Australian Schools 1969 (with Keeves)

Teachers for Commonwealth Schools 1972 (with Neal)
Research in Education in Australia 1972.

Appreciation:

William Cropley Radford died in November 1976. Dr Cunningham, his predecessor as Director of A.C.E.R., also a Fellow of the Academy, died earlier in that year.

Dr Radford was a member of a number of major inquiries into education at Commonwealth and State level and was Chairman of the Committee Appointed to Review the System of Public Examinations for Queensland Secondary School Students.

In 1963 he led a UNESCO team which included the late Professor Eric Russell, to advise on education planning for Zambia (then Northern Rhodesia).

Committees on which he served included: Australian Association for Research in Education, Australian Broadcasting Control Board, Australian College of Education, Faculty of Education – Melbourne University; Interim Council – La Trobe University, Legacy (both state and national), Melbourne Kindergarten College, Winston Churchill Trust.

He ranks as one of Australia's greatest educators. Few Australians have been as influential over all aspects of education from pre-school to university across the whole continent. While his contributions were made through personal research and by membership of major committees concerned with education on which he brought to bear his scholarship and humanity it would be unfortunate to underestimate his influence on the development of his staff. Several members of A.C.E.R. staff have become either members of the Academy or have held University Chairs (or both). A.C.E.R. was well known internationally because of his leadership.

The Academy has lost a distinguished Fellow.

Appreciation:

The sudden death of Eric Russell at the early age of 55 on 26th February 1977 has robbed Australian economics of a great political economist and Australia of a great Australian. In all the major economic issues of the post-war period — the wool boom of the early 1950s, the balance of payments and import controls, Australia and the Common Market, Australian wages policy, foreign investment issues, stagflation, the energy crisis — Eric's was one of the first and wisest voices. He published little, but his few papers are seminal, notable for their clarity, deep appreciation of the issues, soundness of diagnosis, humaneness of the policy suggestions.

Eric was a gifted teacher, devoting endless time to keeping his courses up to date and relevant. (He always insisted on taking a full teaching load, despite the many administrative and other demands on his time.) His courses all revealed a coherent structure, a whole into which the literature could be fitted, made sense of, yet at the same time leaving students in no doubt as to where their teacher stood. He treated his pupils as interested adults and they responded accordingly. His tutorial technique would have brought praise from Socrates.

He was without peer as a critic of other people's work. No logical slips or shoddy argument escaped his fine mind. He always looked for the positive contribution so that the criticised could go away knowing they had much more homework to do but feeling, nevertheless, that it was worthwhile.

Eric was a uniquely loveable and loved human being. Superbly intelligent and cultured, a very funny man, a gifted actor and producer, an all-round sportsman, a man of great courage and faultless integrity, he had a natural modesty and humility that were utterly endearing. He was generous with his time and with his money; his good works, legion as they were, were also done by stealth. He had a wide range of devoted friends, a united loving family. He fiercely hated dishonesty, injustice and under-privilege. He was an outstandingly honest man who loved ordinary people, who took delight in good friends, good food and wine and talk, and who set standards in scholarship and living which few could hope to emulate but many would wish to try.

G.C. Harcourt.

PANELS

Panel Chairmen and Committees are elected in the annual meetings of each Panel. Those elected in November 1977 were:—

- Panel A:* Professors J. Zubrzycki (Chairman), W.D. Borrie, T. Brennan, J.D. Freeman and M.I. Logan.
- Panel B:* Professors J.W. Nevile (Chairman), J.K. Dillon, G.C. Harcourt, E.A. Russell and S.J. Turnovsky.
- Panel C:* Professor N.D. Harper (Chairman), Mr S.I. Benn, Professors E. Campbell, R.S. Parker and O.H.K. Spate.
- Panel D:* Professors N.T. Feather (Chairman), R.H. Day, Mr. S.S. Dunn
Professors P.H. Glow, R.W. Russell and A.T. Welford.

CONSULTATIVE COMMITTEE OF THE ACADEMIES OF THE HUMANITIES, OF SCIENCE AND OF THE SOCIAL SCIENCES

Previous reports have indicated the purposes of this Committee, which has discharged a general responsibility for the Botany Bay Project. During the report year the representations to government on behalf of scholarly journals (see 1976-7 Report pp. 18-19) were continued when the Secretary of the Academy of the Humanities and the Director of this Academy gave written evidence to, and appeared before the Industries Assistance Commission. As at June 30 1977 there were no indications of what the results of these efforts had been.

GRANTS IN AID

The Academy's activities depend mainly on its receipt of grants in aid. By far the most important source has been the Australian Government. The government grant for 1976-77 was in all $51,500, $50,000 specifically for general administrative costs and $1500 for international activities. The Academy again expresses its appreciation for this assistance. Unfortunately, private gifts to the Academy must be for specified research activities to be free of income tax.

The Academy expresses its appreciation of the grants made for its Survey of Australian Economics:—

|---------------------------------|----------------|
| | $ |
| C.S.R. Ltd. | 1,000 |
| Esso Australia Ltd. | 1,000 |
| General Motors Holden | 500 |
| Reserve Bank of Australia | 4,000 |
| Shell Company of Australia Ltd. | 250 |
| Sidney Myer Charity Trust | 1,000 |
| State Savings Bank of Victoria | 500 |
| Utah Foundation | 750 |
| TOTAL: | $9,000 |

The Academy was unsuccessful in its search for funding for two other projects — A Survey of Youth Unemployment and A Study of the Professions in Australia.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

The Academy's Annual Lecture for 1976 was given in the Coombs Lecture Theatre, Australian National University, Canberra, on 2 November 1976, by Professor G.N. Blainey. The topic was The Politics of Business: A History. This is being published in the Academy Lecture series.

Two publications resulting from the Academy's Committee on Mathematics in the Social Sciences appeared during the report year. G.H. Cooney: The Mathematical Background of Students in Social Science Disciplines in Australian Universities: E.R.D.C. Report No. 10, A.G.P.S. Canberra, was being used by the author in a series of seminars in the various states. The Academy's own publication was J.P. Sutcliffe (ed.) Mathematics Needed for Particular Social Sciences, which is distributed from the Academy's office.

During the year the Director represented the Academy on the National Committee for Social Science Teaching.

INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITIES

For the first time the Academy's international role was recognised by the Australian government in the government's grant of $1500. Arrangements were made for the President, Professor F.H.G. Gruen (who would be resident in Cambridge at the time) to attend a meeting of the Standing Committee for Co-operation with National Social Science Councils and Analogous Bodies, to be held in Paris in October 1977. The Academy had, with the government assistance, become a member of this body, set up as an extension of the International Social Science Council of U.N.E.S.C.O.

The Academy provided financial assistance and co-sponsorship for the World Congress of the International Association for Philosophy of Law and Social Philosophy, to be held in Sydney and Canberra in August 1977. A grant was made to the British Institute in South-East Asia, which was recently established by the British Academy to assist scholars working in the South East Asian region.

The Director was invited to the second meeting of the Asian Association of National Social Science Research Councils, to be held in Seoul in October 1977.
